Response to Arguments

Applicant's Remark	Examiner's Response
"The cited portions of Aarnio do not teach generating an image of a document as presently claimed."	As similarly mentioned on final rejection filed on 6/2/2009 (2 nd response of Response to Arguments), the examiner believes applicant is reading more into the claim than present. A "document" can be defined as a reference, proof, or evidence to which a street sign, landmark, etc. as the image captured and taught by Aarnio can be considered a document. The examiner suggests to further narrow what applicant means by "document" in the claims (i.e. business card, written or printed document, etc.).
